ABSTRACT

This directory of academic, public, special, and school libraries and media centers is organized according to Connecticut's six cooperating library units. The listings include a 3-digit library number, library name and address, telephone number, and district served. Public libraries display summer and winter operating hours. Entries also indicate library equipment available for public use, electronic information systems, telefacsimile equipment, telex numbers, copying and reader printer equipment, interlibrary loan, access, meeting room information, special collections, and other information. Librarians, staff, and trustee identification are provided as applicable and available. There is also a directory of state library organizations and associations. The primary index is alphabetical; however, access is also provided by a classified list of special collections, and directories of electronic information retrieval systems and databases, equipment for use by the public, personnel and membership, where to buy, and advertisers. Cooperating Library Service Unit (CLSU)

Connecticut is divided into six regional Cooperating Library Service Units. Each is a private non-profit organization of multi-type libraries. The purpose of the Cooperating Library Service Units is to improve library service through cooperation. Each CLSU develops and implements programs which reflect the needs, interests, and capabilities of its member libraries towards the improvement of library service. They work within the criteria established by the Cooperating Library Service Unit Review Board. The Review Board was established by Public Act 75-363 to set criteria for, and to encourage the formation of Cooperating Library Service Units.

Introduction

The 1980 DIRECTORY OF CONNECTICUT LIBRARIES is yet another effort by the State's Six Cooperating Library Service Units to support efficient cooperation amongst all types of Connecticut libraries. It is by no means the first directory of libraries in the State. Many years ago the State Library issued its first directory of public library addresses and hours. In 1978, Region One CLSU issued a directory of all libraries in the northwest. Within several weeks the Capitol Region Library Council (Region Two CLSU) issued a more comprehensive work. Most CLSUs followed suit.

Soon thereafter all CLSU coordinators and their boards agreed to issue this first, single comprehensive directory of Connecticut libraries, librarians, media specialists and support staff. Libraries are listed according to the CLSU in which they are found. School superintendents are listed for each school district, and the names of officers in organizations such as the State Library and its Board, Connecticut Library Association, Connecticut Educational Media Association, the Special Library Association, the Association of Connecticut Library Boards, the Interagency Library Planning Committee, and other important boards and agencies are in a separate section. All names of libraries and staff are indexed.

Information Included

The library/media center listings include an assigned three-digit library number, the name of the library or school, the address, telephone number and the district served. Public library hours are listed for summer and winter. Library equipment available for public use, electronic information systems, telefacsimile equipment, telex numbers, copying and reader printer equipment, interlibrary loan, access, meeting room information, special collections, and other useful information can also be found.

The names and titles of staff have been listed for public libraries, college/university and special libraries. For school libraries/media centers, both public and non-public, the names of the school librarian/media specialists appear after the school name and address. Public and private schools are arranged alphabetically by school district. When available, direct dial numbers or extension numbers appear after names. Library membership in a CLSU is noted.

Public library trustees have been listed, but not school boards or trustees of universities or special libraries. Only the public holidays on which libraries are open are listed. It is assumed that unless otherwise listed, the library is closed. Although special libraries are listed, only those so designated are open to the public.

Negative responses, i.e., where a service is not given or access is not permitted, are not, for the most part included. It is assumed that if not stated affirmatively, it is not a service or privilege of the library.

Names in the Personnel and Regional Index are arranged according to ALA rules. Names beginning with the prefix M' or Mc are arranged as if written Mac, e.g., McGee, Aaron. Macgee, Andrew. MacGee, Don. McGrit, May. M'Grew, F. X. Institutions to which an individual is affiliated is given in the form of its three-digit number to the left of a name.

While the directory is a reference tool, over the years it has become valuable to a larger, more varied group: public relations agencies, reporters, business, governmental and social agencies, civil organizations and guidance counselors.

We hope that future additions will attain to an even higher degree of completeness.

Acknowledgements

And we are grateful to the CLSU Coordinators, Lee Flanagan (Region One CLSU), Dency Sargent (Capitol Region Library Council—Region Two), Jan Hilton (Eastern CT Library Association—Region Three), Ann Neary (Southwestern Library Council—Region Four), Sherry Hupp (Southern CT Library Council—Region Five), and James Benn (Southeastern CT Library Association—Region Six) and their staffs who helped in compiling information and encouraging this effort. Of course, we wish also to thank all of those individuals who answered our questionnaire and supplied information.

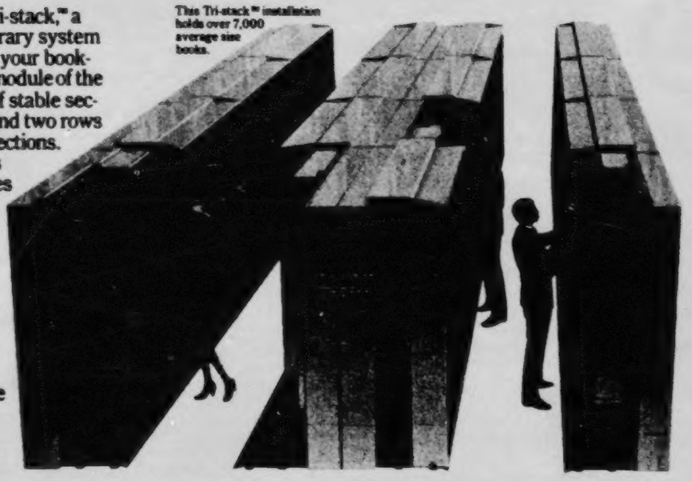
No wonder you're running out of library space, your bookcases don't move!



This Tri-stack™ installation holds over 7,000 average size books.

These do. This is Tri-stack,™ a new high density library system that virtually triples your bookshelf capacity. Each module of the Tri-stack™ consists of stable sections of shelves behind two rows of 36" wide rolling sections. The entire system is modular. Add shelves in height, and 36" wide sections in length, as you need them. The shelves come equipped with movable magnetic follower blocks for convenience. The shelves are available in two heights and both can be used together in the same section. The depth of each row is a space-saving 10¾ inches. (Combined depth of a 3 row module is only 34¼ inches.)

The Tri-stack™ offers you unmatched book storage combined with easy accessibility. With conventional bookcases, one aisle serves only two rows of shelves. With Tri-stack,™ one aisle serves six rows.

Tri-stack™ is surprisingly economical...requires no special installation...sets up quickly and easily. Safe and strong, it needs no floor-bolting and the tracks in the base deck are recessed with the walking surface texturized-finished to prevent slipping.

Corporate library or legal library, research library or general library, you needn't worry about running out of space if you have the bookcases that move at the touch of your hand. The Tri-stack™ by Supreme. Contact us now for complete details.

REGION 1

001 REGION ONE COOPERATING LIBRARY SERVICE UNIT

267 Grand Street, Waterbury, CT 06702
Telephone 756-6149

There are six Cooperating Library Service Units (CLSU) in Connecticut. In this part of the state—CLSU Region One— the Region One Cooperative is the organization designated to act as the multi-type library cooperative for northwestern Connecticut.

The Region One Cooperative is a voluntary organization of 90 public, school, special and academic libraries. It has the largest membership of any region.

By working cooperatively, libraries of all types and sizes provide their users with more materials than they could ever hope to find between the four walls of any one library.

The Region One office is housed in the Silas Bronson Library, the public library of Waterbury. It is governed by a Board of 12 directors:

M. Fairlie Carmichael

Funds are provided by state and federal grants made available by the Connecticut State Library with approval of the CLSU Review Board, and by the Retired Senior Volunteer Program of Waterbury. Headquarters and equipment are made possible through the courtesy of the Silas Bronson Library.

WHAT WE DO. Not many people have heard of CLSUs and Region One. That's because we work in the background, providing support services to member libraries. Here are a few of the projects ROC is involved in:

Inter-Library Loan. Phone and written requests for all types of fiction and periodicals are located in area libraries and sent to your library as quickly as possible.

16mm Film Service. A rapidly growing collection of over 500 titles for library use and public borrowing is available to any ROC member library or their patrons, and is delivered via UPS to the requesting library. In the past year over 70,000 people viewed our films.

Publications and Graphics. ROC publishes a film catalog and a library directory annually. Also it distributes a monthly newsletter and flyers that serve as a source of news about procedures, in-service training, and available library materials.

Union Cataloging. From member libraries ROC is gathering all titles and locations of periodicals and fiction in a common catalog from which all members may borrow.

Workshops. To improve the quality of library service, ROC conducts 10 workshops a year for library staff, on subjects from conserving energy in public building and fundraising to basic reference services.

Consultation and Planning. ROC provides telephone and in-person consultation on any library problem from book worms to public relations.

Other Programs. ROC also provides a number of other programs, from group medical coverage for libtary staffs to assistance with library graphics and publication. At present, we are concentrating in particular on school and public library cooperation, continuing education projects, mini-AV cooperatives, and friends of libraries. All ROC cooperative services are free to member libraries which share their resources. The single exception is some film which ROC itself must rent for its members. Membership itself is free and requires only the signing of an application form.

FUTURE PLANS. We hope to expand our Inter-Library Loan Operation soon to nonfiction, since it is more efficient to borrow from a neighboring library than one across the state. To undertake this project involving millions of titles, we would require additional staff or computerization. We would also like to increase our film library and fund AV cooperation.

The Capitol Region Library Council, the Cooperating Library Service Unit for Region 2, is a private, non-profit association of public, school, academic, special and business libraries in Greater Hartford. Formed in 1969, CRLC has served as a model for regional multitype CLSUs statewide. CRLC is committed to cooperative projects and programs to improve library service and access to resources, to enable the staffs of member libraries to acquire new skills, and to encourage better communication between member libraries and their publics.

In 1980 and beyond, a major focus of CRLC will be the implementation of a computerized circulation system, which will also serve as an online union catalog. Other ongoing programs include: an interlibrary loan borrowers service, cooperative purchasing of library supplies, continuing education programs for member library staffs, an annual children's book festival, and publications which facilitate access to resources.

TRANS WORLD BOOK CO.

New England's Oldest Library Book Wholesaler

May we introduce ourselves. We are the new management of an established and respected company that is pledged to improve and expand personalized services in wholesale book distribution to the school and public library communities.

Now known as TRANS WORLD BOOK COMPANY, we are the successor to Library Book House, which has offered book wholesale services to educational institutions for the past 60 years.

TRANS WORLD BOOK COMPANY, as part of its dynamic approach to providing wholesale book services to School and Public Libraries, represents an alternative to the sterile and impersonal work controlled and dominated by the impersonal computer.

There are serious problems that librarians face in book distribution and acquisitions. Audrey Eaglen, Head, Order Department, Cuyahoga County District Library, Cleveland, Ohio, writing in the May and December 1979 SCHOOL LIBRARY JOURNAL, has highlighted them. She said in part, "It is not pleasant for libraries to face the fact . . . [that] in dealing with the general book wholesalers, who can and usually do establish discounts as they wish, serve or not serve their customers at will, and change any or all policies arbitrarily." These articles are must reading and if you would like to have reprints please drop us a post card.

A fresh and greatly expanded book inventory is the cornerstone of the service TRANS WORLD BOOK offers.

Grounded in a career of over 19 years in the book-selling business with Charles Scribner's Sons, and with a clear knowledge of the importance of personalized service in the completion of orders, the new management of TRANS WORLD BOOKS is dedicated to offer individual attention to each order received.

We are pleased to be at your service and we enthusiastically solicit your inquiries. Since we offer competitive discounts that are honest and we offer reasonable service, why not send your next book order to TRANS WORLD BOOK COMPANY?

ECLA EXECUTIVE BOARD 1979-80:
Patricia Owens, President; Susanne Zschock, Vice President; James Weigel, Treasurer; Ann Bumstead, Recording Secy.; Jeanne Ford, Corresponding Secy.; Oscar Guilbault, Jody Newmyer, Nora Stevens, Barry Williams

The Eastern Connecticut Library Association was incorporated in 1976 with the stated purpose of working together cooperatively to increase the facilities and services of area libraries and the State Library Service Center. When money became available for funding a system of cooperating library service units, ECLA officially undertook to act as such a unit for the 28 towns of Tolland and Windham Counties.

ECLA currently offers member libraries a reference and referral service; a film rental program; and interlibrary loan of fiction, non-fiction, and periodicals. The public is served directly through the Books by Mail program and Dial-A-Story.

The Southwestern Connecticut Library Council, Inc. is the Cooperating Library Service Unit (CLSU) for Connecticut Region 4. The Council was formed from two previously-existing cooperative groups—the Southwestern Connecticut Library System and the Library Group of Southwestern Connecticut. The purpose of the Council is to improve and expand the library services and the associated cultural, educational, and informational facilities available to the residents of southwestern Connecticut by encouraging cooperation, by using existing resources more effectively, by developing additional resources, and by informing the public of library resources and services. Full membership in the Council is open to any institution or organization providing library service in the southwestern Connecticut area, regardless of its governance, source of funding or constituency.

In a matter of seconds, a Minolta reader/printer can change from one format to another. And another. And another. And another.

A Minolta reader/printer RP 406 or RP 407 accepts virtually any microfilm format made. From 16mm and 35mm rolls to 3M cartridges, aperture cards and fiche, including fiche jackets and high-reduction COM fiche. That's why owning a Minolta is like having several reader/printers in one.

In only seconds, you can change from one format to another. At the flip of a switch, you can get positive prints from either negative or positive microfilm. And you can read the screen comfortably even in broad daylight. Because the image is brighter, sharper and clearer from corner to corner, thanks to Minolta's camera-quality optics and the wide variety of magnification lenses. Seventeen for the RP 406 and thirteen for the RP 407.

The RP 406 gives you high-quality copies up to 11 x 11." The RP 407, up to a jumbo 11 x 17." And each screen is as big as the biggest copy the machine makes.

Even COM fiche-only users can take advantage of Minolta quality, with the RP 101-DL. It's easy to match the 101's magnification to the format you're using. Simply switch between any two of four lenses by sliding a lever.

See your Minolta Micrographics dealer for a demonstration. Or write Minolta Corporation, Micrographics Division, 101 Williams Drive, Ramsey, N.J. 07446.

Telephone 387-3690

HOURS:	Monday—Friday	8:30—5

PERSONNEL:	Staff	Sue Sarris

In 1977 Southern Connecticut Library Council was organized as the CLSU for Region 5 (34 towns in New Haven and Middlesex counties). The regional office, staffed by a full-time coordinator, opened in February 1979. During its first year of operation several programs were begun. Region 5 Interloan is a very successful interlibrary loan service for member libraries which provides access to the LEAP libraries collections (Hamden, Cheshire, North Haven, West Haven and North Branford) via computer terminals. Through CONNSEARCH SCLC members have access to the Waterford/Groton and Greenwich database also.

In addition, Region 5 Interloan can give periodical title locations for all of Connecticut. The VanPack program brings schools and smaller libraries collections of books, records, and other materials on topics of current interest such as endangered species, nuclear power, and the 1980 Olympics.

In order to improve access to area collections the Union List of Reference Materials will be published in summer 1980. It will include the holdings of about 80 libraries in Region 5 and will be arranged by subject to facilitate use. Other SCLC activities range from sponsoring workshops, to updating the Connecticut Union List of Serials, to this directory.

SECLA is a voluntary association of fifty public, school, special and academic libraries in southeastern Connecticut. Originally incorporated as the New London County Librarian's Association in 1967, this regional group has evolved into a multi-type library cooperative engaged in a wide variety of activities, providing supportive services to member libraries.

Current projects include an inter-library loan service utilizing computer hook-ups to libraries in three CLSU Regions; cooperative buying of library supplies; cooperative ordering of best sellers; expanded inter-library delivery services; library user and non-user surveys; continuing education for all staff levels; various publications such as a union list of periodicals, regional directory, Film Service catalog, and monthly newsletter; and graphics assistance using stencil-making, printing, sign-making and lettering machines.

SECLA members may also participate in the Southeastern Connecticut Film Service. The Film Service maintains a collection of 300 16mm films for library use and public borrowing. There are currently 10 public library and six school library members. The Film Service is supported jointly by membership fees and CLSU funding.

Other groups associated with SECLA include the Region 6 Group of Library Directors (GOLD), a regional children's librarians' group, and an On-Line Users Group.

SECLA dues are currently set at $25 per year for libraries. Personal memberships are available at $5 which entitle personal members to a newsletter subscription and to attend SECLA workshops at regular member rates.

LIBRARY TURN-KEY SYSTEM

Look at it this way:

Turn-key computer systems are similar to a lock. Hardware is much like a lock's casing; software is like the lock's tumbler mechanism. Making it all work together is the key.

Geac manufactures its own hardware. And, we've developed one of the most advanced on-line library circulation control and inquiry systems available today.

All it takes is the turn of a key. Let Geac discuss your library needs with you.
